

In Pictures: RIBA London 2016 Award Winners

36 projects ranging from a new home for the Ravens in the Tower of London to a Japanese-take on the London terraced house have been recognised in the 2016 RIBA London Awards.

Gongs for architectural excellence went to a number of resi schemes after the judges whittled the 181 entires down to a shortlist of 68. DDSHA's design for Derwent's Corner House in Fitzrovia (pictured below) and Allford Hall Monaghan Morris' "sensuous" reworking of 61 Oxford Street for Dukelease were both recognised alongside some ambitious single-unit projects.

The London Award winners will now be considered for a RIBA National Award in July; winners of these are shortlisted for the RIBA Stirling Prize for the best UK building of the year.
